        Bandung National Institute of Technology. I have a strong interest in the development and adaptation of technology. This interest encourages me to continuously learn how new technologies work and understand their impact on everyday life and the industrial world.

        Currently, I am exploring various innovations in Web3, blockchain, artificial intelligence (AI), and financial technology (fintech). I am interested in understanding how these technologies can be used to build systems that are secure, efficient, transparent, and accessible to society.

        In addition to developing my technical skills, I am also working to improve my communication, leadership, and teamwork abilities through various work experiences, organizations, and projects I have participated in. In the future, I hope to continue learning and contribute to creating innovative and beneficial digital solutions.
